“Once again, the unflappable Daniel Johnnes put on what is probably the single greatest tasting and dinner of fine Burgundies in the world. This year’s event was held at the Westin Hotel in San Francisco. The afternoon tasting with the producers was especially fun as a number of top domaines were showing their sensational 2005s. I admit it; I tasted some of my favorite wines more than once. Frankly, it was impossible not to, as any mere mortal was painfully aware that an opportunity to taste some of these gems might not come for a long time....if ever.”
