The Big Burgundy Party Doesn't End; It just moves to Aspen

By John Stimpfig
February 5, 2011

“This year, New York is home to the US Paulée – arguably the ultimate celebration of great red and white burgundy anywhere on the planet. As ever, sommelier supreme Daniel Johnnes has put together a stellar list of the region’s greatest winemakers – Leflaive, Lafon, Roumier, Roulot and Romanée-Conti, just to name a few. But if you can’t make it, you could always reconvene with the same crowd in Aspen the following week. On February 15 and 16, Johnnes and Co decamp to Colorado for a no less exclusive party entitled La Paulée des Neiges.”
